

Satellite radio is one of the best things to happen to radio in years. I love to get the old music from the thirties and forties. So much better than what is called music today including RAP and some Heavy Metal. None of that kind of music is conducive to having a peaceful and restful experience. I also like being able to get some of the TV news channels while traveling that I might miss otherwise. Better than the local 3 minutes of news that tells you how many murders occurred in the county. So I would encourage all radio stations to find some way to appeal to a larger audience than just the younger people.
